Overview

Key Features

- With a PC connected to the internet (home or office) and 10-15 minutes, a respirator user is able to complete the requirements to obtain OSHA medical compliance through OSHA MedCert.
- Employees and employers receive instant notification of the results and can print a certification, with a physician's signature, upon passing.
- With the Honeywell OSHA MedCert program, most employees no longer need to leave the facility to visit a physician.
- OSHA MedCert provides respirator medical evaluations for all brands and types of respirators.
- The Honeywell OSHA MedCert program offers a tremendous savings when compared to a medical evaluation at a physician's office.
- Managers can purchase and use OSHA MedCert access codes for immediate needs and file excess access codes for future needs, such as new hires.
- Respiratory managers have the ability to log and track employees' progress online.
- Board certified physicians review evaluations and issue clearance certificates and, when needed, make a recommendation for further testing by a physician.
- Certified safety professionals provide expert oversight.
- All employees are evaluated using the same, non-biased, OSHA respirator medical evaluation questionnaire.
